Thus far fourteen lives have been lost, great damage done to shipping, while the toss of other property will amount to hundreds of thousands of dollars. The sky for fifty-six hours has been of a dull leaden color, and the low-hanging and scurring clouds, which were burried along by a northwest gale, seemed to have every drop of water shaken out of them. The wind, which at times reached a velocity of more than fifty miles an hour, drove the rain in sheets, making it almost impossible for nedestrians to get along the streets. By Tuesday evening more than seemed a velocity of more than fifty miles and it was still coming down in torrents. This afternoon, while great crowds were watching the flood, the first disaster hap pened here. Captain Stanley Flannigan and Michael LeBlonde were going down the river in a rowboat used to peddie milk along the docks. When near the mouth of the raging stream one of LeBlonde's oars broke, and the two men were left at the mercy of the waters. They were quickly carried out in the lake by the rushing stream. Preparations were quickly begun for their rescue. Seven men manned a lifeboat and pulled away. When the life savers were well out of the mouth of the river the oars broke, and in an instant the cork like vessel swung about, to tess

Reports from all sections of northeastern Ohio tell of swoilen streams and overflowed farm lands, but it is impossible to make an estimate of the damage. Neither is it possible to tell what the property loss in Cleveland will be. The damage to property along the flats will be very heavy, as also will that caused by washed out streets and broken sewers throughout the Vallonia, a village on the west side of the river, is, for the first time in its history, several feet under water. It is impossible to estimate the damage in the city or in the valley until the waters go down. The railroad shops, nearly every factory and mill, both the electric light stations, and the glass works, are flooded and closed. But one telegraph wire is open, and that is working imperfectly.

At Sharon the families living in the lower portion of the town are moving into the houses on the hills, and a large number of families has been rescued in boats. The factories are closed. Buildings of all descriptions are being carried away, and washouts are reported all along the railroads.

At Erie Mill creek has broken over its banks, erryging destruction along its path. The fluod at Newcastie is the greatest ever known in the history of the place. In the First ward over thirty buildings have been overthrown by the floods. In South Newcastle the damage is great; with the exception of one mill, all the manufacturing plants are flooded. The wrecks of many bridges came down the river today. A dozen families had to be taken from second stories in boats.

Their four fellow life-avers were tossed about so mercilessly by the wild waves that they were unable to swim back to the lifeboat, and, after vainly battling for a few moments with the elements, they were overcome and the battle for life bad to be given up.
